

K-12 中文教师培训营

20-25 June 2012

DESCRIPTION

The Academy will enable participants to review old and new practices from a fresh perspective. Veteran teachers will have the opportunity to find new elements to add to their repertoire, and teachers with less experience will have the benefit of learning “tried-and-true” techniques. Topics covered will include:

- ❖ K-12 curriculum design and classroom instruction in standards and benchmarks;
- ❖ Unit designs and lesson plans;
- ❖ Assessment for the four language skills and competencies;
- ❖ Performance-based learning and teaching;
- ❖ Differentiated instruction and classroom management;
- ❖ Integrating technology and Chinese culture into teaching.

WORKSHOP PRESENTERS

- ❖ Theresa Chao, Chinese Program Principal at the International School of Beijing
- ❖ Prof. Ji-Mei Chang, teacher educator and educational researcher in the Department of Special Education, Connie L. Lurie College of Education at San Jose State University
- ❖ Dr. Yu-Lan Lin, Senior Program Director of World Languages Program, Boston Public Schools

TARGET AUDIENCE: K-12 Chinese language teachers and program coordinators who wish to understand and adopt the best classroom practices and the best structure for their program.
